off. I work on Harley Davidson's at a local dealership, and when I go home with busted knuckles, exhaust burn, and swollen hands, it's nice to know a customer appreciates the effort I put into repairing their motorcycle. The dealership makes the money off of labor fees, not the individual mechanic. I'm proud to be a blue-collar worker keeping people safe and happy on the road. I didn't know I was reading a magazine published by snobs.

Eric Seder
Via e-mail

We'll have you know that we are most decidedly not snobs, and we hold mechanics in every bit the high esteem we do our country club attendants and our polo trainers. Tally ho!

Commie Cuties

I recently observed a Maxim billboard near Red Square in Moscow. Moscow is a vibrant yet paradoxical city in which the likes of Britney Spears would be considered average. If you guys are planning on running a feature article on "The Women of Moscow," I would be glad to assist.

Tease Whiz

There is little doubt that your magazine is consistent in featuring the hottest celebrities. But your magazine is sort of a tease, like a virgin stripper who displays the goods but nobody knows if they work. Ever consider going the distance and featuring a section or two showing naughty body parts, whether of willing celebrities or hometown hotties? Then you'd have the best articles and pictorials.

Adam Green
Via e-mail

News flash, Adam: That stripper isn't really a virgin. Also, Shaquille O'Neal is not a genie, despite what you may have observed in the movie Kazaam.

Indian Bummer

After reading your article "Screwed Heroes" (July), I was disappointed that I didn't see anything regarding the Navajo Code Talkers of WWII. These men saved a lot of lives because the enemy could never break their code. Even during the Super Bowl halftime show, they were not represented. They deserve our respect for what they did during the war.

Chris Begay (Navajo)

You're right—those heroes deserve our salute. And don't forget the greatest injustice they've truly suffered thus far: a film starring Nicolas Cage. Oh, the humanity! ❧

Name: Alhia, 26

Why she's single: "I haven't had a boyfriend in two years. But the last guy I was with didn't have the same set of values as I do. We got into this big fight, and he started screaming. I'm more of a pacifist. I like to talk things out."

AMBER'S BEDROOM

This Jersey girl invited us into her love den. Care to join?

LIGHTS OUT

According to Amber, sleep masks aren't just for Xanax-popping socialites anymore. "When you want to get to sleep right away, they're the best." We've found that a bottle of Thunderbird works just as well.

DOG SHOWER

There's a problem with Amber's four-year-old Yorkie, Lakiya—he leaks. "He pees on people," she explains. "And sometimes he pees on other dogs' faces." Yet Amber swears she didn't buy the dog from R. Kelly.

FACE PAINTING

Amber keeps it Victorian-style with her bedside vanity. "I've had one since I was in grade school," she says. Prep time for the sexy 23-year-old? "I could take five minutes, or I could take an hour and a half."

HELP US HELP YOU!

You send pics of your girl in her bedroom to bedroom@maximmag.com. We'll take care of the rest, babe.

SASH PRIZE

"I was both Miss Hawaiian Tropic of New York and Miss Hoooters of Manhattan in 2003," Amber brags. "But after I won those, I was done with pageants." Good call. It's always best to go out while you're on top.

ROLE PLAY

Amber's not afraid to venture off the bed once in a while. "I had sex on my fire escape once," she says. "But all that metal hurt, so it didn't last very long." We know—we couldn't even get the tripod set up.

No one sells a bedsheets like Amber

HOW TO

FORGIVE ME, FATHER...

SCORE IN CHURCH

The pews are packed with heavenly bodies. God bless you.

1 FIND YOUR FAITH
Macking in a holy place is easier than almost anywhere else—the good girls never see it coming. Plus, “every girl wants to tell her father she met her boyfriend at church and not at a bar,” says God-fearing cutie Erin Howard, 25. Look for progressive sanctuaries that offer “contemporary” services (to attract a younger, hipper crowd) and coffee hours (so you can actually talk, as opposed to just ogling from afar).

2 ENTER THE KINGDOM
Scope out the finest churchgoer, then snag the pew in front of her. You won’t appear too eager, yet you can make eye contact easily—and shake her hand if there’s a “sharing of the peace.” Avoid making moves mid-service. “You’re in a place of bloody worship; you have to be respectful,” notes Tracey Cox, author of Superdate. Instead, listen to the sermon, which’ll give you plenty to talk about later.

3 GET RELIGION
Despite the communion wine, forget your sloppy bar tactics. After the service, just introduce yourself and act genuinely curious about the church. Say, “I’m new here. Are you a regular?” This’ll transition to the coffee hour, where you can quiz her about the service and how she ended up there. If all else fails, say something about looking for a higher meaning in life. She may make it her goal to “convert” you.

4 REACH THE PROMISED LAND
At this point patience is key. “A lot of repressed religious girls are damn hot in bed,” notes Cox. “But you’re not getting a quick shag here.” Provided she’s sending positive signals (e.g., laughing, smiling, not making the sign of the cross), simply tell her you’d love to meet up, outside of church, and ask for her digits. And no matter where it goes from there, try to think like the Browns do: There’s always next Sunday!

Participate, ask questions, talk back...

What if we listened to what everyone had to say — and discovered that God can speak through us all? After all, we all learn better when we talk things out, hear different points of view, and give room for the Spirit to speak through our deliberation.

We all have questions. But we learn together in a way that tackles the deepest part of our doubts while making sure that our purpose is clear: to always know the reason for the hope that we have in Jesus Christ, and to be prepared to share that answer with everyone who asks us about that hope.
